

Silver City Airways

Pioneers of the Skies

Keith J. Dagwell

March 2010 £14.99 paperback

Silver City Airways rose from obscure beginnings to pioneer and become world famous for its cross-Channel car ferry service, when the only alternative was a slow sea crossing. Everyone who was anyone, from the Prime Minister to royalty, flew Silver City. Based in Kent on the Dungeness Peninsula, and eventually expanding to Southampton, in its hey-day the airline ran 240 cross-Channel flights a day and their airport at Lydd was busier than Heathrow!

- Packed with previously unpublished pictures from the Silver City Association archive.
- The first dedicated history of this unique airline.
- Includes stories from passengers and workers involved with the airline, from the Berlin Airlift to cross-Channel car ferrying.
